

Securities Trading Policy

Careteq Limited

ACN 612 267 857

1.0 PURPOSE

- 1.1 This Securities Trading Policy (Policy) sets out the requirements for directors, employees, consultants and contractors of Careteq Limited (Employees) and its related entities in relation to dealing in securities of Careteq Limited or any other securities which may be affected by this policy or the law.
- 1.2 The purpose of this Policy is to assist all directors, officers and employees to avoid conduct known as 'insider trading'. In some respects, this Policy extends beyond the strict requirements of the Corporations Act 2001 (Cth) (Corporations Act). If you do not understand the implications of this Policy or how it applies to you, you should raise the matter with the Chief Executive Officer or the Company Secretary before trading in any securities which may be affected by this Policy or the law.
- 1.3 This Policy extends to directors, officers, employees or potential insiders (including such parties as advisors and consultants who have access to or are involved with confidential information) (Restricted Persons). This includes a director, officer or employee of Careteq, the director's, officer's or employee's immediate family (includes a person or persons under the control or influence of the director, officer or employee) and related entities controlled by the director, officer or employee or members of the immediate family.
- 1.4 This Policy only provides a summary of applicable legal and regulatory issues which are complex and should therefore only be used as a general guide and not as legal advice.

2.0 INSIDER TRADING

Insider trading prohibition

- 2.1 The Company's shares are listed on the ASX. Section 1043A (of Part 7.10, Division 3) of the Corporations Act makes it an offence for a person in possession of information that is not generally available but which, if generally available, a reasonable person would expect to have a material effect on the price or value of the Company's securities to:
- a) trade in (i.e. apply for, acquire or dispose of, or enter into an agreement to do any of these things) the Company's securities; or
 - b) procure another person to trade in the Company's securities,
- (each a 'dealing in the Company's securities').

- 2.2 The insider trading prohibition in section 1043A of the Corporations Act is MANDATORY and not a matter of guidance.
- 2.3 It does not matter how the person comes to have the inside information – for example, whether the person learns it in the course of carrying out that person's responsibilities, in passing in the corridor, in the lift or at a social occasion.
- 2.4 It is an offence to communicate the information to another person with the knowledge that the person could deal in the Company's securities. Accordingly, the prohibition on insider trading cannot be avoided by a person procuring or arranging for another person to deal on his or her behalf.
- 2.5 The prohibition does not apply to acquisitions of shares or options by employees made under employee share or option schemes, nor does it apply to the acquisition of shares as a result of the exercise of options under an employee option scheme. However, the prohibition does apply to the sale of shares acquired under an employee incentive scheme (whether directly or through the exercise of options).

Penalties

- 2.6 Insider trading is a criminal offence. It is punishable by substantial fines and/or imprisonment or both. A company may also be liable if an employee or director engages in insider trading.
- 2.7 Insider trading may also attract civil penalties. A court may impose substantial pecuniary penalties for insider trading and order payment of compensation to persons who suffer loss or damage because of insider trading.

3.0 INSIDER INFORMATION

- 3.1 Insider information is information that:
- a) is not generally available; and
 - b) if it were generally available, would, or would be likely to, influence persons who commonly invest in securities in deciding whether to acquire or dispose of the relevant securities.
- 3.2 Information is generally available if it:
- a) is readily observable;

- b) has been made known in a manner likely to bring it to the attention of persons who commonly invest in securities of the relevant type and a reasonable period for that information to be disseminated has elapsed since it was made known; or
- c) consists of deductions, conclusions or inferences made or drawn from information falling under paragraphs above.

3.3 It does not matter how or where the person obtains the information – it does not have to be obtained from the Company to constitute inside information.

4.0 PRICE SENSITIVE INFORMATION

4.1 Price-sensitive information means information relating to the Company or the Company's subsidiaries that would, if the information were publicly known, be likely to:

- a) have a material effect on the price or value of the Company's securities; or
- b) influence persons who commonly invest in securities in deciding whether or not to buy or sell the Company's securities.

Examples of price sensitive information

4.2 Examples of possible price-sensitive information include, but are not limited to, the following:

- a) a material acquisition, joint venture, realisation or disposal of assets;
- b) a threat of material litigation against the Company;
- c) the Company's sales and profit results materially exceeding or falling short of the market's expectations or the previously announced guidance by the Company;
- d) a material change in debt, liquidity or cash flow;
- e) a significant new development proposal;
- f) the granting or loss of a major contract;
- g) a management or business restructuring proposal;

- h) a change in the capital structure, such as a capital return or the buy back of a financial product;
- i) a payment of dividends or a share issue;
- j) a change to the Board or significant changes in senior management;
- k) the entering into of an agreement or option to acquire an interest in an asset or business, or to enter into a joint venture or other arrangement in relation to an asset or business; and
- l) any information required to be announced to the market pursuant to ASX Listing Rule 3.1 (Continuous Disclosure Rule) which is yet to be released to the market.

Information that is generally available

4.3 Information is generally available if:

- a) it consists of a readily observable matter;
- b) it has been made known in a manner likely to bring the information to the attention of people who commonly invest in securities of a kind whose price or value might be affected by the information, and, since it was made known, a reasonable period for it to be disseminated among such persons has elapsed;
- c) it is derived from information which has been made public; or
- d) it consists of observations, deductions, conclusions or inferences made or drawn from other generally available information.

Dealing through third parties

4.4 The inside trading prohibition extends to dealings by individuals through nominees, agents or other associates, such as family members, family trusts and family companies.

4.5 Consequences for breach of the insider trading prohibition

- a) Breach of the insider trading prohibition by an Employee or an Employee's family member could expose the Employee to criminal and civil liability including fines and imprisonment.

- b) Significantly, a breach of the insider trading prohibition could result in an Employee or an Employee's family member being sued by another party or the Company for any loss suffered as a result of insider trading.
- c) Breach of insider trading laws or this Policy will also be regarded by the Company as serious misconduct which may lead to disciplinary action and/or dismissal.

Source of information is irrelevant

4.6 Trading is prohibited at any time if the person possesses inside information.

4.7 It does not matter how or where the person obtains the information and it does not have to be obtained from the Company to constitute inside information. This means that section 1043A of the Corporations Act will apply to any Employee who acquires inside information in relation to the Company's securities, regardless of capacity. In such circumstances, the Employee is prohibited from dealing in the Company's securities

4.8 Employee incentive scheme

- a) The prohibition on trading in the Company's securities does not apply to acquisitions of shares or options by employees of the Company made under an employee share or option scheme or performance rights plan, nor does it apply to the acquisition of shares as a result of the exercise of options under an employee option scheme.
- b) The prohibition does, however, apply to the sale of shares acquired under an employee share scheme or performance rights plan and also to the sale of shares acquired following the exercise of an option or performance right granted under an employee option scheme or performance rights plan.

7.0 SALE OF SECURITIES

- 7.1 Employees need to be mindful of the market perception associated with any sale of the Company's securities and possibly the ability of the market to absorb the volume of shares being sold. With this in mind, the management of the sale of any significant volume of the Company's securities (i.e. a volume that would represent a volume in excess of 10% of the total securities held by the seller prior to the sale, or a volume to be sold that would be in excess of 10% of the average daily traded volume of the shares of the Company on the ASX for the preceding 20 trading days) by an Employee must be discussed with the Board prior to the execution of any sale. These discussions must be documented in the form of a file note, to be retained by the Company Secretary.
